THE SUMMER RESORTS.

Society at Saratoga, Long Branch and Niagara.

Distinguished Lady Visitors and Their Toilets.

Hotel Life Adapting Itself to Hard Times.

SARATOGA, July 28, 1876. The natural expectation was that Saratoga would liven up during racing week, but the anticipation has not been fully realized. No one seems to be able to account for the atmosphere of dulness that pervades the streets and the vast sweep of the hotels. Some auggest the tightness of money even among people who centennial charms or centennial curiosity have kept many of our people and our foreign visitors away from this usually dashing and brilliant Spa. Be that as it may the season is not yet up to the mark of Saratoga galety. There are people here by the thousands, yet the capacity of the palatial hotels is not and has not been taxed, although during the regatta week a clerk at "the States" said they had not a vacant room in the house, and hotel clerks are known to be conscientiously truthful. The people do not seem to enter with zest into anything. They lounge and they mope. There are pienty of pretty, stylish ladies here, they complain fearfully of the lack of gentlemen, and certainly they are an essential of watering place life. Their absence is noted on the piazzas and in the bail room when the music woos with its bewitching strains to flirtation or to the dance.

DULL BALLS AND HOPS. Scarcely within the memory of a regular yearly visitor to Saratoga have the balls and hops been so dull. Last season's crushed dresses are tantalizingly worn, and the "she correspondent" will have to draw very largely upon her imagination to paint these toilets in glowing language in all the new shades and the new quirks of this season's style. Yet there are magnificent and recherché toilets seen in the ball room and sweeping along the corridors and through the pariors of the best hotels. There is a lady of distinguished position at "the States," a woman of the warm, glowing, tropical style, who wears a varied and gorgeous toilet, and whose jeweis are of great value. From ears and threat and raven hair flashes the lurid, fascinating From ears and tamond light and the green glitter of emeralds that sont a fortune. Velvets and laces and heavy brocades. intermingled in the latest style of Parisian art, drape the superb figure. At one time the toilet is composed of solid dead black velvet, with an Oriental touch of cream and gold drapery about the shoulders; again it a white, gauzy fabric, with bows and sashes of warm, rich cardinal silk; at another time it is a ciel blue brocale, with a web of rare lace falling over the young loks are found in the rough, and it is not necessary to make three toilers a day.

REPUCKO RATES AT THE B THES.

Some of the holes are reducing their rates. Indeed, it is possible to get lair accommodations at all of them by the week at less than $5 a day, but often the small inside rooms into which one is tucked when these more reasonable arrangements are made, are far from agreeable. At the Windsor, the new hotel, the top rooms are about as large and airy as any others in the house and possess the charm of freshness, the rooms fronting on Broadway commanding a fine view of that theroughtere. It is a delightfully kept and beautiful little hotel, and has done well considering it is such a new thing and the season so far has been bad. By another season it is expected to fill up early with the best class of people. The plazzas are by far the coolest place in Saratoga, as the breeze has full sweep around them, the hotel being on higher ground than any other in the village. The view from the top of the hotel is at once picturesque and varied. The eye sweeps across a wide range of country, taking in the Hudson Valley and the peaks of the Green Mountains in the distant cast, wandering over to the Greenfield Hills and the Adirondack Mountains in the west and resting upon the village of Saratoga. The firm of the green was and resting upon the village of Saratoga. the Greenfield Hills and the Adirondack Mountains in the west and resting upon the village of Saratoga. The Grand Union has made many laudable efforts for the entertainment of its guests. They gave a morning german there lately, and a charming garden party, at which the children danded and indulged in races and games which were witnessed by a large and brilliant assemblage of invited guests. Refreshments were served on the lawn. In the evening the garden file continued for the benefit of the grown usonly but the cool evening interferce insternal, with garden fete continued for the benefit of the grown people, but the cool evening interfered materially with the enjoyment. This is the second of these entertainments that have been given at this hotel, the first one, which occurred last season, having been inaugurated by and under the direction of the late A. T. Stewart. It ball room of the Union is the most elegant at Savators.

It is to "the States" that most of the notable people to this season, and there the floors most do congregate. First earlier are a large number of toreigners also at this hotel. The Spanish colony is quartered there. The Minister of Spani, and Mine. Mantilla occupy a cottage in the hotel. Brigarier General S. Mira, Major V. Sanchez, Capitain O. T. Ancheriz, Major S. Moraques and Colonel Hernandez represent the Spanish army, Manuel M. Peralto, Minister from Costa Rica, arrived resterday. Count and Countess Arnin, o. Berlin, occupy an elegant suit. Sir A. G. Sandy and lady also have a suit of rooms at the States, Judge and Mrs. Swayne and their daughter, Mrs. Parsons, are spending the season there.

CONGRESS PARK.

One of the features of saratoga is the improvement in Congress Park. A handsome Gothic structure has been erected at the entrance, and the visitors to the Park can sit there, entirely protected from sun of pain, and have the water brought to them at tables, a there they can sit and chat while the music plays, or aboy can get coffee a little further on in the cafe. The grounds of the Park are beautifully laid out with lowers and in the centre of the protoness.

where they can sit and chat while the music plays, or shey can geteoffee a little further on in the cafe. The grounds of the Park are beautifully laid out with Sowers, and in the centre of the ministure lake a music stand has been constructed. The band plays three times a day—morning, afternoon and evening. There is some grounbling about the small admittance fee that is charged.

The Tollets at the Racks.

There have been some elegant tolets worn at the races. Among them were a brown velvet skirt and cream breaters and long sacque, triamed with brown velvet and fringe; a black grenadine, with steel threads running through it and heavily trimmed with black lace, embroniered with steel; a seat-brown silk, trimmed with gold and silver braid and a procusion of cream Valencienes lace; a paie blue and cream broade Princess dress, with cream chip hat and blue feathers; a black and gold striped grenadine over black velvet, with cream hat trimmed with crimson roses. There were several elaborato white toilets worn over rose color, blue silk, with nats of the same delicate shades; a pearl gray silk, with bows, lined with cardinal, and hat to match, was worn by a leader of New York Isashion.

The bright lined hats and creamy parasols of the ladies gave a very picturesque appearance to the grand stand, which was on the occasion of each race filled with the beauty and fashion of Saratoga.

Among the prominent people staying at Saratoga are Governor and Mra Hendricks, of Indiana; ax-Governor and Mra Hendricks, of Indiana; province and Indiana; yelloston; Murai Raitead, of Cheinbrat; William H. Vanderbiit and family; Admiral Alden, United States Navy; Fernande Wood and family, Marshai O. Roberts and wife, Augustus Schell and Hamily, Marshai O. Roberts and wife, Augustus Schell and Hamily, of California; Sir Henry and Lady Gurnsoy, of England; Count and Countest Sale, of France. Many well known citizens, whose families are here, make short periodical visits, the ladies remain-ing for the season.

The beach here presents a grand appearance tonight. Over 2,000 people arrived here during the day. Not a vacant room can be found at any of the hotels, and many of the visitors were compelled to seek accommodation in the many cottages which abound. hop. - The grandest of all was that of the Germania Hotel, an orchestra of twenty pieces being engaged. NIAGARA FALLS

THE BEASON IN ITS HEIGHT-A MARRIAGE AT A HOTEL-DON CARLOS LOOKED FOR, BUT NOT COME-SPELTERINI ON THE HIGH ROPE OVER THE RAPIDS.

NIAGARA FALLS July 28 1876 The prospects of business at the Falls were rather duli during the early part of the season, but latterly there has been a slight improvement in the hotel ar rivals, so that the streets present quite a busy appear auce. Niagara is not quite the den of extortion that it used to be in war times, as to-day backs can be had at reasonable figures and good botels are not dearer than at other summer resorts. There has been quite a rush of foreigners during the past two weeks, and to-day I sat down to quite a lively breakfast table, as there were two Japanese, three Italians and two Spaniards close to me, each indulging in his own peculiar lingo, and when giving their orders the Japanese showed themselves decidedly the best English scholars. Bridal couples are rather scarce this season, as the Contennial has received the most attention from thos mated doves, but we had a marriage the other day in a private parlor of the international that created a flutter Brdal couples are rather scarce this season, as the burner, sarring the cardinal silk; at another time it is a cirl blue brocale, with a web of rare lace falling over the arm and hiling in the square corsage; still another toilet is a pale salmon brocade over bluish gray Jaile. Madame is a centre wherever she moves, and a hundred eyes follow the aweep of her voluminous train and watch the glitter of her gems and of her eyes.

DISTINGUISHED TOILETS.

There is another lady at the States of the delicate, refined representative American type, a lady whose face possesses not the coloring of beauty, but the charu of a winning spirit. Her toilets, like her manner, are soft, graceful, elegant. She wears a rich creamy silk, almost covered with a filmy mass of loce, and a valuable diamond cross sparkies on a simple band of black velvet around her throat. In striking contrast to this toilet is one of black velvet and brack lace, with sprays of vivid crimson flowers. There are dainty musin dresses worn by New York belles, dresses with masses of ruffles and trumings of light, soft lace. The coarse straw coaching or Gainsborough hat is much seen on young ladies. It is always worn back from the face with a little toss up to one side. There is a very dashy one of white straw with the broad brim lined with cardinal velvet and a very long white plume sweeping yever the shoulder coquentishly worn by a dasing brunette.

THE KEA OF ECONOMY.

Papas cannot a flord the coatly wardrobes that their wives and daughters have been in the habit of bringing here, and as many of these laines were unwilling to come without the usual thirteen trunks filled with new dressees and hats and gloves and boots and solves and boots and solves who have the coaching or Gainsborough hat is mot pountingly went of to a less expensive rotreat. A vast number of young men, too, who have not money to squance have gone to more quite piaces. More described as a continuity of the laties and the pounding of the provided parties that their wives and daughters have b a reputation that will follow her all over the world, as she is certainly the most accomplished artiste that has ever crossed the Niagara Rapids on a single rope. Her friends are having a gold medal made in Buffalo, which will be presented to her as a souvenir of the falls and a remembrance of the difficult task that she accom-plished during her stay. The medal will be the gift of some of the guests of the International Hotel, where Mile. Spetterini had her rooms.
